

Dear Year Sevens,

Your holiday homework this term break is to write a letter to a new student. His name is August. He has been homeschooled, so joining us next term will be the first time that he will be in school.

We expect you to welcome him to EPIC, and give him some tips and tricks for understanding how our school works.

Please be extra kind (but genuine) in your letter, as August might be nervous. He was born with a rare condition that meant his face did not fully develop, and as a result he can be quite shy. But that is not the most important thing about Augie! He loves Science, so watch out any Science whizzes, he'll be competition! He has a wicked sense of humour, and he has a close, supportive family and a dog he loves very much.

Thanks,

Miss Jasmine and Ms Gomes
